On this teacher's day let us celebrate the continued, effective, and remarkable efforts done by the teachers leading the educational stability during the most dreadful crisis. Effective management skills of teachers have allowed global continuity in education. In order to build stronger education systems, from the integration of the remote learning phase to the proper implementation of technology, teachers managed challenges by monitoring and providing psychological support to students.

Development programs, policymaking, and government efforts ensured teachers' training to provide pedagogical support by opening distinct platforms for availing educational resources. Interactions to facilitate learning different education technology providers enhanced student-teacher interactions allowing them to adopt their practices of handling technology and creating an environment that supported students fully.

The tough days

The unexpected occurrence of some unknown disease which soon turned into a pandemic, affected different sectors impacting for the long term. The drastic consequences gave mental, physical, and emotional challenges to the people. In an educational forefront what emerged as warriors were teachers.

The 2020-21 academic year was unlike the other with school closures and the emergence of different technological solutions accepting mediums of both hybrid and remote learning for proper management of the classrooms. While different technology installed in the classrooms made teachers learn digital skills adopting these skills was not at all easy. But with continuous efforts and training by the companies and institutes it helped teachers to handle these solutions effectively to uphold better interactive sessions in classroom.

Leading the crisis

On teacher's day 2021, the honorable PM of India said that it was commendable how teachers ensured good education during Covid-19. In response to the crisis, teachers burned the midnight oil to shift gears to help students and families immediately by accepting the new modalities of technology provided by education solution providers. With the well-developed backup plan with the help of the government's efforts along with EdTech companies in India, teachers were able to address the inequities ensuring true distance education.

To avail never stop learning attitude teachers gave their best academic professional performances in the following ways:

- Ensured efforts to adopt technology easily
- Gave more than the working hours
- Accomplished goals and thrive in excellence
- Offered revolutionary ideas to maintain educational continuity
- Helped in ensuring accessibility to rural areas
- Managed effective both out-of-classroom and in-classroom new learning abilities

Technology as a blessing in disguise

Accepting new normal life, the only blessing during the crisis emerged as technological solution for the classroom. The actual digitalization of learning together paved the way toward the era of educational excellence. Integration of technology in the classroom equipped teachers with maximum educational tools improving students' success by engaging students.

As an instructional medium education solution provider which supported teachers in better class conduction were online learning management solutions like Virtual classrooms, Interactive Displays embracing hybrid learning and Digital Boards as an excellent technical tool for classrooms. Technology has revolutionized the way of teaching by cultivating Digital skills amongst teachers. Giving support to teachers on broader framework different EdTech companies in India with well-designed coursework, inbuilt k-12 content, easy and accessible online learning platform, and available digital tools with pedagogical resources guided and supported teachers to continue and manage learning in crisis.

Commitment toward teaching

Education is the most valuable means of embracing human values amongst learners, when the unknown consequences of the pandemic created a huge gap between educators and learners, effective teaching with the help of education solution providers created the bridge over this gap. Disallowing the worst impact of obstacles in educational continuity, teachers never left the faith in giving better learning experiences to their students. Provided with the greater learning platform teachers were able to communicate properly with the students. Empowered with technology teachers created an opportunity in the crisis making every child to avail the best of the education.

Long way to go....

Good teachers are always determined toward the growth of their students. To engulf their learners with a better human value other than only classroom-based teaching. Although now the situation has been normalized, the opening of several schools with ensured precautions has helped students to come back to the schools, but with the change. Change in the learning pattern, change for teachers to adopt paradigm shifts, and change for an institution to accept technological tools in support of this change smoothly. Breaking the old habits to adopt the new, teachers lead the way throughout the crisis effectively enlightening students through the dark path.

With all the commitments, consistency, and determination teachers were able to decide pathways to conduct teaching without being disrupted at any time. The support and efforts provided by the government collaborating with ed-tech companies in India ensure learning is a never-ending journey. There is more to achieve in shaping the Indian education system to have an incredible place globally to meet the current educational demands.

Ending this blog, with two most important words; Thank you!
